Richard Sexton, Rowing Co-ordinator

FROM THE PRESIDENT

Where has this season gone? Perhaps it's just my own circumstance with being interstate every week lately, but the season seems to have passed in flash. The next few weeks may well go even faster, as we accelerate towards our hosted regatta on the week prior to Head of the River and then the big grand finale itself. Our preparations for the Boat Club's hosted regatta on 14 March are going well and thank you to all those who have volunteered to help. There are many jobs to - most of them not difficult or lasting too long - but many hands will make lighter work of it on the day. If Kathryn Barber has not already caught up with you to put you on the roster, then she may well track you down at this weekend's regatta. I'm sure she'd also welcome a call from you if you're not likely to be there.

This hosted regatta is essentially the most important day of the season for the club in a financial sense. It's the culmination of our sponsorship activities and it's our chance to both host our sponsors and put our best foot forward as a well-organised and cohesive club on the day. I know the committee would value your presence at the host school site in front of the rowing shed and to have you there for as much of the day as possible. We're keen for a strong turnout and it would also be great for our sponsors - particularly the University of Adelaide - to be able to talk with parents and students on the day.

Hope to see you this Saturday and then a strong contingent on 14 March. Here's wishing our rowers every success in the last weeks of this season!

Leigh Radford, President
