From the Principal

Valete Year 12, 2014

The final week of any school year is a significant one. Each student reflects on his or her efforts, achievements and possibly missed opportunities. There is the hope and excitement of moving forward, transitioning to new experiences and also seeking closure. The final week for Year 12 is particularly special. It is also intense and emotional.

The School Captains have worked closely with students and staff to try to ensure the final few days are memorable and meaningful. Thursday’s Celebration Day is an opportunity for students to share in the camaraderie of their peers, to express friendship and a sense of fun. Friday is a more formal day to acknowledge the many contributions of our Year 12 students and the Valedictory Service is one in which they are able to be honoured as they transition to becoming, very shortly, our newest Old Scholars. The Valedictory Dinner is a form of thanksgiving, in a way; a wonderful event that highlights the strong bonds formed between students and their teachers.

Whilst there are still examinations and final assessments to be completed, this last week provides each student a time to reflect, to say goodbye with dignity and respect (for themselves and others), to consider their future and to appreciate the significance of the rites of passages and the ceremonies we place around these. I thank, in particular, the Heads of House and Mr Michael Holmes for their significant efforts in preparing for these events.

I encourage all of our leaving students to find inspiration in everything they encounter in this world and to always remember that they have a place in our hearts and will always belong to our wonderful community at Pulteney Grammar School.

Staff Achievement

I extend my congratulations to Mr Troy Thomson, Director of Learning Technologies, who has achieved two significant honours in recent weeks.

Firstly, Troy has completed the national Assessor Training Certificate as part of the Certification of Highly Accomplished and Lead Teachers in Australia. This was convened by the Australian Institute of Teachers and School Leaders (AITSL) and the South Australian Teacher Certification Committee. This means that Troy is now qualified to assess applicants from independent schools against the Australian Professional Standards for Teachers and therefore, he brings to his daily work at Pulteney valuable understanding of the AITSL Teacher Standards and ways in which to build the capacity of our own staff.

Secondly, Troy has been selected by Microsoft to become a member of their global community of Expert Educators. The Microsoft Expert Educator programme recognises pioneer educators globally who are using technology to transform education, through advocacy, sharing of best practices and mentoring peers and policy makers on effective use of technology in education.

From the Head of one ninety

Year 12 Students

Year 12 students are into their final week at school, with Swot-vac starting immediately after their Valedictory Service on October 24. A letter outlining the end of year arrangements for students was posted home prior to the holidays, and by now everyone should have returned the reply slips to the Valedictory Service to their tutors.

To briefly recap, the final day for Year 12s begins with a breakfast at school followed by a farewell assembly for all senior school students. Morning tea for Year 12 students, their parents and grandparents, the guard of honour and the Valedictory Service follow this. Year 12 students are then asked to leave the campus with their parents and begin their period of study. Later, students and staff will gather at the Pavilion on the Park for the Valedictory Dinner.

Students have been reminded of the need to finish the year on the same positive note with which they began. They have also been reminded of the enormous benefits to their examination results of working hard between now and each of their examinations. Year 12 teachers over the last two weeks have outlined revision activities and I hope that their advice is heeded.

Lastly I would like to take this opportunity to wish all Year 12 students a memorable ending to their schooling and encourage them to work hard to obtain the results they deserve.

Congratulations

I would like to extend my congratulations to the 8 members of the Hillary Challenge who this year came 2nd in the competition. The event is stage over multiple days, with students on Day 1 undertaking 5 hours of group tasks. Day 2 sees students complete an 8-hour rogaine with Day 3 seeing students conclude the event with a 90 minutes mountain bike ride followed by a 2-hour run and a 20-minute raft paddle.

Special thanks must be passed onto Mrs Linda Davis and Mr Ken Grady who took a small group of Year 10 and 11 students to Japan on a cultural and language exchange. From all accounts, all students and staff had a wonderful time visiting key locations in Japan, but also visiting our sister school.

Academic Top Ten Results

It is my pleasure to announce the academic top ten recipients for Term 3.

From the Chaplain

To Our School Leaders

Not so long ago a Sydney Morning Herald headline read:
“Sometimes you have to go up really high to understand how small you really are.”

How real this is when we understand true leadership. But of course the newspaper article didn’t speak of leadership. It referred to the fastest and highest skydive in history. Felix Baumgartner travelled at 1342km/h, breaking even the sound barrier, and plummeted from a height of over 39km, breaking the record that had stood since 1960. He said, “It was harder than I expected….trust me, when you stand up there on top of the world, you become so humble.”

“Humility is the noble choice to forego your status, deploy your resources or use your influence for the good of others before yourself.”

Jim Collins of Stanford University, author of the best selling book, ‘Good to Great’, conducted a five-year study exploring what makes good companies great. Collins describes the response of his research team as surprised, even shocked to discover that the leaders of the most successful companies had a blend of personal humility and professional will. The flip side of this came out in a more recent publication outlining how arrogance often spelled the downfall of a company. Of course this shouldn’t surprise us, as we live in the world created by God, it would make sense that humility, the great attribute of God the Son, Jesus, as demonstrated in his life on earth, would result in great outcomes.

This is part of the task that all the student leaders agree to when they take their positions of leadership. It’s not the acceptance of a prestigious accolade or a trophy worn around their neck so that everyone can see how great they are. Rather what they wear is a commitment to demonstrate humility, selfless, unconditional love to those around the beyond just those they may naturally want to serve.

They do this under the influence of a story about greatness; where Jesus willingly went to a cross. It’s the story that has shaped our culture and society in a distinct way. If you are a school leader ask ‘Will I, from the height of my leadership position, humble myself to the service of others?’

Pulteney Wine Makers Shiraz Bottled Wine Release

Following the presentation to Principal Anne Dunstan of the first bottle of their 2013 Shiraz, the Pulteney Wine Makers are proud to announce the release for sale of their 2013 Shiraz bottled wine. This 100% student produced wine is the result of a two year science project by nineteen Year 10, 11 and 12 science students with a keen interest in doing some advanced, hands on science. They have converted 300Kg of McLaren Vale Shiraz grapes into 200 bottles of fine Shiraz wine and learned much of the science and engineering of modern winemaking along the way.

The project began back in March 2013 when the grapes were picked and transported back to school by these students. Many thanks to Steve and Julie Tunsill for donating the grapes and letting the students ‘invade’ their Warraminga vineyard for a half-day to pick and collect the grapes. Many production and analytical procedures were then studied and applied over the next 18 months to convert the bunches of grapes to bottles of fine wine. Topics such as fermentation, acidity and pH, the measurement of sulfur dioxide and its role in winemaking, distillation and density and their role in alcohol determination, to name but a few, were looked at in a very hands on way. The students also designed their own bottle label and we thank Nick Mausolf at RipDigital for turning their design into printed labels. The whole winemaking procedure including all analysis techniques were performed at school in the specially allocated wine science laboratory in the Science Faculty under the watchful eye of Pulteney’s Chief Winemaker David Schultz (Science Laboratory Manager when not making wine) during countless school lunch and recess periods.

The Pulteney Wine Makers invite you, the Pulteney community, to be a part of their science exploration journey by purchasing some of this beautifully presented, limited edition bottled wine. Details of how you can support this student group in this way appear further on in this edition of PRW.
Preptacular

Thank you parents, staff and students for supporting the Preptacular of Term 3. Putting on a concert of this size and scope requires much trust, patience and support. There were about 230 children on stage for the massed choir items. That’s the biggest team and musical ensemble in the whole school! The sharing of the children’s musical skills and understanding brought much joy to the community. The Year 3s in particular were outstanding in their efforts to play and sing along with the older children. Every student performed exceptionally well. I hope everyone has come away from our Black and White Night thinking a bit about the hope of compatibility in differences and how we can be positive when opposite forces come our way.

Kind Regards,
Adrienne Cullity
‘Tandem Bike’ Mosaic In Junior School

Over the years groups of students and I have produced numerous mosaics and art pieces that can be seen displayed around Pulteney. These projects are enjoyed by everyone involved and contribute towards making Pulteney that little bit more creative and interesting to work and relax in.

This year Missy Pascoe [Old Scholar 2012] and a group of dedicated Year 8 students helped me create a tandem bike-inspired mosaic. We were inspired by the thought of an individual beginning a journey and that each journey starts with the first step...or in this case, pedal. The small band worked enthusiastically over many lunchtimes to create a lasting mural that will hopefully inspire many to take that first step on the adventure of life.

At the end of term 3 we had a small opening and morning tea to celebrate our fine achievements. The opening was attended by each participant and was officially opened by Mrs O’Loughlin who was delighted with the finished piece.

The group is keen to create more murals and eager to begin a new project. I have a few ideas for a new theme.

Head of Visual Art

Year 9 City Week 2014

One of the more unique programs Pulteney Grammar School offers to students is Year 9 City Week.

In Week 9 of last term, all Year 9 lessons were suspended to enable students, in groups of 3 or 4, to research a topic of their choice related to the Adelaide CBD.

For the entire week, students were allowed to sign in and out of the school to attend interviews, conduct surveys, and even have lunch with their parents! They then planned and prepared a visual display to present to parents, families and staff at the City Week Expo in Week 10.

All groups were asked to focus their research on the past, present and future aspects of their chosen topics. The variety of themes this year was vast, and examples include “Adelaide Oval: Is it worth it?”, “How family friendly is the city?”, “How are the SAMRY and RAH improving our medical system?” and “What brings tourists to the Adelaide CBD?”.
On the evening of Tuesday 23rd September, the students presented their research at the “City Week Expo” in Wyatt Hall. The high quality of the work this year was obvious, with the standard of both the research and the presentations outstanding.

Those who attend the City Week Expo were entitled to vote for the presentations they felt were the best, and this year’s results extremely close. It gives me great pleasure to announce the runners up and winners for 2014:

Winners: “What makes a hospitality business successful?” (Sophia Barva-Smith, Emily Edwards, Samantha Simons and Anna Wilhelm)

Runners Up: “Creating a Vibrant City” (Alexia Daminato, Whitney Dolling, Athan Economos and Millie Hanlon)

Runners Up: “What has driven the surge in mobile food trucks?” (Nick Golfis, Sam Hore, Jiung Kim, Conor Pascoe, and Tom Sibly)

My congratulations go to all groups for their mature approach, excellent organisation and impeccable behaviour throughout City Week, as well as their amazing displays for the Expo.

My sincerest thanks go to the 23 staff mentors who advised and guided their groups throughout the week, to Paul Ryan and Jon Harding for all their hard work and support, to Mike Neilsen and Mark Wilkins for the huge task of setting up the display screens, and especially to Kelly Martin, who’s organisation of absolutely everything from programs to staples always makes City Week the great success it is.

Tournament of Minds, Australasian Finals in Melbourne:

Pulteney Prep Team is Awarded Honours in the Maths Engineering Category

The Pulteney Grammar School Tournament of Minds team consisting of Ethan Nicholls, William Mahoney, Luke Smid, Madison Schubert, Katherine Baigent, Amelia Brett and James Burgess represented South Australia at the Australasian Pacific Finals in Melbourne from the 16 to the 19 October. The team competed in the Maths Engineering Category against teams from all around Australia. The team was involved in a variety of activities and events throughout the four days. On Saturday, 18 October, the team was given a challenge to solve. All teams had three hours to solve the challenge. In this time they needed to solve the problem but also work out how they were going to present a ten minute performance in the afternoon. The team also needed to respond to a spontaneous challenge during the three hour challenge. The team was absolutely amazing on the day. We were so proud of what the team produced and the creativity that they demonstrated. The team were fortunate enough to be awarded Honours in the Maths Engineering Category, which means that they were in the top 15% of all teams. This is an amazing result for Pulteney Grammar School, and a first. We would like to thank the team for their hard work over the many months and also the parents for supporting us. We would also like to thank the parents that attended for their support and assistance in Melbourne. We look forward to many more years of Tournament of Minds at Pulteney Grammar School.

Year 12’s
I would like to wish all Year 12 students the very best of luck as they head towards the ‘finish line’ of their schooling. I will be sending out a letter to all Year 12 families in the next few weeks, outlining important dates and information that may assist them over the coming weeks and months, as they make decisions regarding their future study options. If Year 12 students or families have any ‘last minute’ questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

UniSA Experience Days
Last week, three Year 11 students attended different UniSA campuses to explore careers and courses available in Health Sciences, Psychology, Social Work, Business and Law. The students all returned having had a wonderful, hands-on experience and with greater knowledge about their possible future career areas. These opportunities for students to experience first-hand the myriad of career areas and courses available to them is invaluable and I would encourage Year 11 students in 2015 and beyond, to take up any of the offers provided by the universities.

Year 11 University Excursion – Wednesday 12 November
Year 11 students will have an opportunity to visit one of the campuses of the 3 major universities in Adelaide on Wednesday 12 November. This excursion allows students to ‘get a feel’ for a university, view the facilities, ask questions and seek information about possible study options.
MyUniversity website

At this time of year, when Year 12 students are trying to make final decisions about their course options for 2015, the myuniversity website offers a range of information that might assist. MyUniversity is an Australian Government website that provides comparable information on Australian universities and their courses, cut-off scores, graduate employment rates, attendance type, costs, student satisfaction rates and retention rates, to name a few. Go to http://myuniversity.gov.au/ to access the site.

University Bonus Points

Each of the three SA universities offer bonus point schemes for Year 12 leavers, when applying to certain courses. These points are added to the university aggregate for studying and passing specific subjects in Year 12, and a number of ‘equal access’ schemes are also available. Students who may qualify for these equal access schemes need to specifically apply for the bonus points, whereas subject bonus points are automatically added to a student’s aggregate. Details of these schemes can be found at www.flinders.edu.au/future-students/how-to-apply/special-entry/special-entry.cfm, (for Flinders Uni), http://www.unisa.edu.au/Study-at-UniSA/High-School-Students/Bonus-points/ (for UniSA) and www.adelaide.edu.au/study/high-school/getting-in/bonus/ and www.adelaide.edu.au/study/high-school/getting-in/access/ (for Adelaide University).

Changes to University Bonus Points Scheme - 2016 entry

The three SA universities are replacing all current equity and subject bonus point schemes with two new bonus schemes. The new schemes will come in to operation for students studying Year 12 in 2015, who apply for entry to studies commencing in the 2016 university academic year. For specific information about the changes, go to http://www.satac.edu.au/documents/factsheet_sacentcet_saunisbonuspoints.pdf

TAFESA Applications

Students wishing to apply to TAFESA to study in 2015 are advised that applications are now open and will close on 30 November 2014. Up-to-date course information is available at www.tafesa.edu.au and students can apply through the TAFEweb at www.satac.edu.au. Students gain nationally accredited qualifications through TAFE and they can also offer a recognised pathway into further tertiary study.

Oxbridge Academic programs

Oxbridge Academic Programs offer overseas study experiences for intellectually ambitious students at university campuses in Oxford, Cambridge, Paris, Montpellier, Barcelona, Salamanca and New York. Their courses span all disciplines including the sciences, the arts, the humanities and languages, in addition to medicine, politics, journalism, and many more. These programs provide opportunities for students to expand their intellectual, cultural and social horizons in stimulating, inspiring and safe environments. The residential programs take place over four weeks throughout June and July. For further information, please go to www.oxbridgeprograms.com.

Service Industry Job Guide

‘The Job I Love’ information package allows students and jobseekers to find out about occupations and careers within the service industries. Within the booklet, there is information about the qualifications required, how to find training, and what course goes with what job. To download the publication, go to http://www.serviceskills.com.au/the-job-i-love-careers-guide
GAP Medics

For students exploring the possibility of studying medicine, dentistry, nursing or midwifery, the GAP Medics work experience program may provide you with an opportunity to experience a short-term medical placement in a developing country. The program offers one to four week international placements for pre-medical students. Students will spend weekdays shadowing highly skilled doctors on their day-to-day rounds in a fully supervised hospital placement. They will also get the opportunity to attend clinical teaching sessions giving an opportunity to learn from a specialist practitioner. The experience can provide a real world perspective of life within a working hospital environment. For more information and applications, go to http://www.gapmedics.co.uk.

Careers with Code

Google and Refraction Media have released “Careers with Code”, a booklet which features a comprehensive list of university degrees for prospective students interested in courses that combine computer science and coding skills with other fields of study. The “Careers with Code” guide also features profiles of successful entrepreneurs and provides examples of how computer science skills can make a significant impact - ranging from saving the lives of premature babies to creating interactive maps to helping survivors stay safe during natural disasters. For students interested in this area, a copy of the “Careers with Code” booklet can be downloaded at http://www.refractionmedia.com.au/careerswithcode/.

Academy of Interactive Entertainment Open Day – Saturday 15 November

Students interested in courses designed to get them started in game development, 3D animation and visual effects, are invited to attend the AIE Open Day on Saturday 15 November from 10am – 3pm. Cricket

1st XI
Friday 17 October
Twenty20
PGS 2 for 120 Dudley 69 no, Adams 21 lost to Rostrevor 3 for 122
Bourchier 2 for 27, Wills 1 for 24
A batting masterclass from tyro Dudley was not enough to hold off Rostrevor in our opening fixture of the season, a Twenty20 fixture at Rostrevor College. Effortlessly stroking the ball to all parts, Dudley in partnership with Adams put on a promising 55 run opening before Adams fell trying to push on, joined by Wills, Dudley continued his bold stroke making pushing the score beyond 100, with Wills falling just before the close. A final total of 120 was respectable, but ultimately insufficient, as Rossies initially faltered with Bourchier peremptorily dismissing the opener whose aggressive swipe ended up cannoning into his stumps. From there however, the assault was brutal, as Rostrevor exacted a heavy toll on the wayward fare served up on a perfect batting deck. A couple of late wickets merely delayed the inevitable as the total was passed just after the halfway mark with three down.

Saturday 18 October
Day 1 of 2
PGS 129 Dudley 44, Wills 42 v Westminster 2 for 118
PGS won the toss and batted in magnificent conditions on Hooper Oval. Unfortunately, after a promising start, we lost early wickets as Sipek was bowled, and Adams was joined by Wills. A short recovery ensued before Adams played over one and was bowled to bring Dudley to the crease to join Wills. A short period of complete domination ensued as once again, the ebullience of Dudley completely commanded the opposition attack. The score rallied along to 2 for 79 before an injudicious swipe to the first ball of leg spin, drew Dudley out of his crease to the jubilation of our opponents. This opened the floodgates, as a series of ill judged contributions saw the team plummet to 7 for 90 in the space of 5 overs, all being starkly contrasted by the resilient Wills, whose vigil continued unperturbed amidst the carnage at the other end. Eventually joined by the resilient Redshaw, the score finally settled a little and we made tea at 7 for 117. Disaster struck immediately after the break, when Wills vigil was ended caught at the wicket in the first over of the resumption. The final wickets were conceded in stoic fashion with Sexton's stoic efforts offering up a final contribution before succumbing with the team total at 129. After a promising interlude, this was eventually disappointing and highlighted the team's need to rally around and support Wills and Dudley. Westminster resumed the crease and after an injudicious slash at a wide Redshaw offering was swallowed by a voracious Wills at point, the boys from Westies showed just how comfortable batting should have been by showing patience, careful shot selection and determination to keep their wickets intact. Our bowling was honest, but barely penetrated in such perfect batting conditions. By stumps on Day 1, Westminster were 2 down for 118, just 11 runs adrift. We will have to spend all of our mettle, to ensure that the result does not plunge beyond our control. The task is ahead of us.

2nd XI
Immanuel 3/198 (Heath 1/5) d PGS 4/126 (Heath 24 ret, Van Der Sommen 21 ret, Barnett 19 ret)
A very good unit, that, the lads from Immanuel. We struggled with the ball, both in bowling it and stopping it in the field. But we showed much greater diligence with the bat in our hand. Hoping to get a more balanced match this week. Captain Heath showed many good attributes with both bat and ball, with Sommy and Daniel batting well.

Year 8/9
PGS 9/95 (Nick Wilson 30, Liam Geddes-Ryan 18) defeated Glenunga 91 (Liam Geddes-Ryan 3/20, Alex Ioanni 2/8, Elliot Ridgway 2/8, Jarrod Miller 2/18)
An impressive bowling and fielding performance reduced Glenunga to 8/46 before they recovered to a total of 91. An opening partnership of 41 between Nick Wilson and Sam Heal provided the platform for victory before we lost some quick wickets due to a run out and poor shot selection. A steadying partnership of 34 between Callum Rowett and Liam Geddes-Ryan helped us to win a competitive match by four wickets with two overs to spare. A good start to the season!
